Music in the film:

Music runs through the soundtrack, including but not limited to Farmer Hoggett’s unusual idea of television entertainment, a performance of Fauré’s Cantique de Jean Racine, (credit above), and a dance he puts on for Babe to lift the pig’s spirits.

First the Farmer sings the song If I Had Words - the theme that runs through the film - to the pig on the couch - and then he does an improvised dance to the tune:
Lyrics:

"If I Had Words", adapted from Camille Saint-Saëns' Symphony No. 3 runs over the tail credits, with the mice singing in speeded-up form:

Mouse voice: And a one and a two and a three Hit it!

(Mice singing):

If I had words to make a day for you,
I'd sing you a morning golden and new
I would make this day last for all time
Give you a night deep in moonshine
If I had words to make a day for you,
I'd sing you a morning golden and new
I would make this day last for all time
Give you a night deep in moonshine
If I had words (If I had words) to make a day for you,
I sing you a morning (I sing you a morning) golden and new (oh, golden)
I would make this day last for all time (time)
Give you a night deep in moonshine (moonshine)
If I had words to make a day for you (bells)
I'd sing you a morning golden and new
I would make this day last for all time
Give you a night deep in moonshine...

(The song fades out, to be replaced by the sounds of giggling mice.)
An orchestral version offering variations on the same theme from Saint-Saëns Symphony No. 3, then runs to the end of the tail credits).

Composer Nigel Westlake:

Nigel Westlake’s first feature film was the relatively obscure feature about prostitutes, Candy Regentag, aka Kiss the Night, and he followed this with the documentary Antarctica and another obscure feature, Backsliding.

In the 1990s, it was his work with George Miller on the Babe films that made his name outside the realm of classical music.
For an interview with Westlake about the music for Babe, see this site’s ‘about the film’ section.

The interview had as an illustration this page of the score:

Westlake has a relatively detailed wiki here.

At time of writing, Westlake had his own website under the name Rimshot Music here, which contained this CV, as well as many other details:

Nigel Westlake's career in music has spanned more than 3 decades.

He studied the clarinet with his father, Donald Westlake (principal clarinettist, Sydney Symphony Orchestra 1961-1979) and subsequently left school early to pursue a performance career in music.

Nigel toured Australia and the world playing with ballet companies, a circus troupe, chamber music groups, fusion bands and orchestras to the cities of London, New York, Rome, Washington, Tokyo, Beijing, Paris, Amsterdam, Vancouver, Moscow, Hong Kong, Berlin, New Delhi and Singapore and many others.

His interest in composition dates from the late 1970's when he formed a classical/jazz-rock/world-music fusion band to play original music. During this time he started to receive offers to compose for radio and circus. Commissions for TV and film soon followed.

In 1983 he furthered his studies of contemporary music in the Netherlands.
From 1987 to 1992 he was a clarinetist with the Australia Ensemble resident at the University of New South Wales. In 1992 he joined guitarist John Williams's group 'Attacca' as a performer and composer for tours of the United Kingdom and Australia. Since then he has given his primary attention to composition.

His film credits include the feature films MISS POTTER, BABE, BABE - PIG IN THE CITY, CHILDREN OF THE REVOLUTION, A LITTLE BIT OF SOUL, THE NUGGET and the Imax films ANTARCTICA, IMAGINE, THE EDGE & SOLARMAX. His romantic score for the Beatrix Potter biopic Miss Potter won "Feature Film Score of the Year" & "Best Soundtrack Album" at the 2007 APRA / AGSC Screen Music Awards. The films Babe & Miss Potter were both international hits, being No. 1 at the box office in many territories around the world.

His television credits include documentaries, telemovies, news themes & station idents. Westlake's work has been widely performed and has earned numerous awards, including the Gold Medal at the New York International Radio Festival and numerous APRA and Screen Composer Guild awards for his film and concert music. The feature film Babe won the Golden Globe Award in 1996 for "best feature musical/comedy".

His conducting debut was with the Queensland Symphony Orchestra in 1997. He has since conducted all the major Australian Symphony Orchestra in recordings and performances of his own works.

His works have been performed by:

and conducted by:

His opus one, Omphalo Centric Lecture (1984) for percussion quartet has become one of the most frequently performed and recorded works in the percussion repertoire by groups in the USA, Japan, Europe and Australia.

In 2004 Nigel Westlake was awarded the HC Coombs Creative Arts Fellowship at the Australian National University. In 2008 he was voted onto the board of APRA as Writer Director.
In 2008 he founded the Smugglers of Light Foundation in memory of his son Eli, to promote cultural awareness and empowerment through education via the mediums of music and film in youth and indigenous communities. On Australia Day 2011, he conducted a suite of his music for Symphony on the Bay, a music & fireworks spectacular, to an estimated audience of 200,000 in Sydney’s Darling Harbour.

* His tribute in music to his son, "Missa Solis – Requiem for Eli", was the winner of the prestigious 2013 Paul Lowin Orchestral Prize (one of Australia’s richest prizes for music composition), won the 2011 Limelight Award for Best New Composition, was named Orchestral Work of the Year at the 2012 Art Music Awards, and has recently been released to critical acclaim on ABC Classics, conducted by the composer. It has received numerous performances by the Melbourne Symphony and Sydney Symphony Orchestras in 2011 and 2012.

He holds an honorary Doctorate in Music, awarded by the University of New South Wales in 2012.

"Compassion" - a song cycle in 7 movements based on a collection of ancient Hebrew & Arabic texts, composed in collaboration with Melbourne based singer songwriter Lior, won the 2014 ARIA for Best Classical Album
